MEMBER STATEMENT

ELIGIBILITY

Anyone who is engaged in the field of international education and who is committed to the Objects of the Association and who undertakes to uphold the ISANA Code of Ethics. Institutional Eligibility is based on status as a signatory to the Code of Practice for the Pastoral Care of International Students. Under Institutional Membership, an Institution agrees that its staff will act within the framework of ISANA's ethics.

STANDING FOR OFFICE

Members wishing to stand for office need to be mindful of their professional capacity to fulfil their obligations in office. Any member holding office needs to be mindful of potential conflict of interest, commit themselves to the objects and adhere to the ISANA Code of Ethics.

Members wishing to stand for office need to be aware of their obligations to represent the membership, and to understand the field of international education. Standing for office and representing ISANA NZ requires an awareness of the interests of members, and the current issues relating to international education including student issues.

Members nominating or voting for office bearers are encouraged to seek people with the capacity to fully represent the membership, and to serve the Association impartially and with genuine commitment.
